DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the Applicant's response filed 8/17/08.

As indicated in Applicant's response, claims 1, 14 have been amended, and claims 2, 13 canceled. Claims 1, 3-12, 14 are pending in the office action.

EXAMINER'S STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

2. Claims 1, 3-12, 14 are allowed; and the outstanding rejections in the Previous Office Action now withdrawn.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

The prior art taken separately or jointly does not suggest or teach the following features.

A method/readable medium for converting Java objects into Javascript-based objects, comprising: (i) identifying Java-based object classes, introspecting each said class, and creating artifact representing a model describing instance data; (ii) generating a converter for each Java-based object, using said converter based on the artifact and said model instance data to generate JavaScript (JVS) object for projecting the Javascript object on a browser page, wherein the generating comprises maintaining rules to enforce typing and modeling constraints not found in Javascript; (iii) defining smallest number of properties of each said Javascript objects to enable object uniqueness as to produce a string portable across any environment, such that if two copies logically representing a same JVS object, automatically aliasing them out so to only keep one copy, and (iv) generating a wrapper for invoking the converter; as recited in claims 1 and 14.

The combination of Conallen, "Modeling Web Application Architectures with UML", Chung, "Modeling Web Applications Using Java and UML Technologies", and Kuznetsov (USPN: 6772413) do not teach/suggest the steps recited in (i), (ii) yielding a converter to generate JVS object with capability for enforcing string typing and rules outside of Javascript on a browser page; nor the aliasing in (iii) to enable uniqueness and portability of a Javascript object prior to invoking the wrapper for the converter.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
